Fifteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

“Jesus is the image of the invisible God. He is the roundabout way that means much more to us than all the other roundabout ways God has taken.

Many, if not all, have taken roundabout ways. The Hebrews, as God plans it, take a roundabout way as they leave Egypt.

Jesus, too, takes a roundabout way to go from Tyre to the sea of Galilee and the Ten Cities (Mk 7, 31). For he goes north, through Sidon, then southeast to get to where he wants. This has puzzled students of the Gospels (The New Jerome Biblical Commentary [Englewood Cliffs, NJ: Prentice Hall, 1990] 41:50).

And these two roundabout ways are not bad. Nor are many other roundabout ways, literal or figurative. Not a few of them have to do with one's background or culture. And one deems it good that missionaries know of these roundabout ways that mean respect.

So, a scholar of the law tests Jesus. Maybe he wants to know how the law fits in in Jesus' and his sent ones' healings and preaching. But he does not ask so in a direct way; he says, “Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?”

Jesus, in turn, does not answer in a direct way but with a question. Then the wise answers, and it seems all is well. But not so quick. For the one who wants to stand his ground wants to discuss the issue more.

Hence, he asks, “And who is my neighbor?” He likes to know if “neighbor” means all or just the Jews, his kin, the good folks. And Jesus answers in not a direct way, that is to say, through a story.

Good and bad roundabout ways.

In the story, the priest and the Levite take roundabout ways. They serve in the temple. Are they not then to help more than others those in need? And then comes a Samaritan.

Might “Samaritan” make the scholar's blood boil? Does he think that there is no way a Samaritan will help? Maybe. After all, for the Jews, Samaritan means a pagan who cannot be just or show mercy. One that Jews are to hate, belittle and ward off. But this nobody helps. Hence, he does not fit the tag they put on him.

And his mercy makes him act. For he goes near the badly hurt, binds his wounds, pours oil and wine on them. He takes him, too, to an inn, cares for him, and pays for the cost of the inn. To add to the roundabout ways we say or do things, let us say he puts his money where his mouth is.

And the scholar sees good in all this. We, in turn, have to pass from what the scholar sees to what Christ does. From vision to action. From theory to practice. We have to love with the strength of our arms and the sweat of our brow (SV.EN XI:32). Till we give up our bodies and shed our blood. We have to be Christ's. And this is not so much that we love our neighbor as that we are neighbor to others. For we are all children of the same Father, be we good or bad. Black, brown, white or yellow, of this or that religion.

Lord Jesus, through you God has been neighbor to us. Deliver us, by the Spirit, from the roundabout ways that will take us away from you. From the Father, and from our brothers and sisters.

YOUTH MINISTRY ARISE & SERVE

St. Therese of Lisieux leaders and members invite all youth to join our youth ministry.

The youth ministry works to empower young people (Grades 6-12) to live as disciples of Jesus Christ in today's world. The youth ministry meets every Saturday during the months of September-June at 11am in our school gym. During this time, we pray, worship, read and discuss Sunday mass readings, engage in discussions about current events, have creative art sessions, games, snacks, and FUN.

To join our ministry please contact us: (phone) 347-450-8815(email) youthministristhereselsieux@gmail.com

We Hope to See You Soon!!

St. Louis and St. Zélie Martin
(St. Therese of Lisieux Parents)

July 12th

God of eternal love, you give us Blessed Louis and Zélie Martin, the parents of St. Thérèse, as an example of holiness in marriage.

In all the duties and trials of life, they remained faithful to you and to your commandments.

They desired to raise their children to become saints.

May their prayers and example help Christian family life to blossom in our world today.

If it be your will, grant us the graces we ask you now through the intercession of Blessed Louis and Zélie Martin, and let them be counted among the saints of your Church.

Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.
